The Most Complete Manual You Should Know for Mothers in Distress

SAN FRANCISCO - June 19, 2018 - PRLog -- I still remember some of my nightmares during pregnancy: I dreamed of mountains and mountains of wholesale baby clothes that I had to fold and sort by types, functions and seasons. Monkeys, breastplates, scuba divers, gaiters, jesusitos, skirts, pololos, frogies, bodys and wimps were piling up before my eyes. When he thought he had mastered everything, they would grow back like magic to start all over again. Has nothing similar ever happened to you? Maybe you have not reached this extreme premama madness but surely at some point came to unravel this wonderful universe of wholesale baby clothes.

If you are already an experienced mother capable of mastering the art of children's fashion in its early stages, congratulations. But if you're still a little lost (I was and a lot) , and I've caught you diving through the networks in search of useful information, this article will interest you . Again come to my mind images of those first moments, mobile in hand, unable to limit the purchases to the essential, while that little creature kicked under my belly or feed and tender in my lap.

Let's get on with it but let's leave for another day the baby bodys chapter, which deserves mention to part. A basic interior that, on the other hand, I hope you have already mastered. Let's focus on something a little more complex. Okay, we have overcome the diaper moment and we have also managed to dress our little one with a body suitable for its stage and environmental temperature. Great and we have the essential, but now what I put on the body to dress it?

The star garments that you will find for their first months and / or years of life have names as varied, animal or mocking as: wimp, gaiter, pololo, jesusito, frog, diver, bib or overalls . Who invented these names? It could not be a first-time mother of those who crawl haggard but in love.

How to choose the most suitable garment for my baby?

How to choose the most suitable garment for my baby?
When choosing the most appropriate garment for our baby, we must take into account two essential things, at least are the ones that I always have in mind: first, that garment must ensure maximum well-being for the newborn, and secondly , following closely the first, should be as functional and practical as possible for us, their caregivers.

The first condition seems obvious but sometimes we forget it by staying with the aesthetic part or with the latest fashion trend and this is a big mistake. We want the best for them and therefore the main thing is to achieve their maximum welfare . This means that it is important to make sure that it is very comfortable and allows you total freedom of movement.
